STATE PRIMARY BILL PASSES

Senator Hobgood's Measure Adopted in Upper House.

Several New Bills Introduced—Mileage Book Bill Occasion of Extended Debate—Many Bills Ratified.

Raleigh, March 1.—The State Senate tonight passed on second reading Senator Hobgood's bill for State primaries for the nomination of all party candidates for offices. The bill provides that all parties must hold primaries on the first Tuesday in August. Rigid rules for the conduct of the primaries are provided.

One section of the bill, making failure to support the ticket nominated a misdemeanor, was stricken out.

New Bills Introduced.

Hobgood: Amend the act establishing the Guilford graded school.

Starbuck: Authorize commissioners of Forsyth to appropriate money for advertising. Establish North Carolina State Board of Trade.

Martin of Buncombe: Authorize commissioners of Buncombe county to issue bonds to procure the location of the Western Carolina Training school there.

Martin of Buncombe: Protect fish and game in Buncombe.

Davis: Relative to catching oysters and clams in Beaufort county.

Barham: Prevent live stock from running at large in Wayne county.

Graham: Amend the revision relative to depositions. Fix liability of initial carriers in transportation of freight. (The Hempburn act.)

Hartsall: Relative to the charter of Concord. Authorize sale of home for aged and infirm in Cabarrus county. Relative to the road law of Cabarrus. Protect game in Cabarrus.

McDonald: Improve roads of Jonesboro township, Lee county. Authorize the commissioners of Moore county to sell the home for aged and infirm.

Sikes: Increase the salary of a clerk in the state department of insurance from $750 to $1,000. Relative to the distribution of school funds in Wake county.

Cobb: Regulate the compensation of the commissioners of Lumberton, Robeson county.

Baggett's Mileage Book Bill.

The Baggett bill to require railroads to pull mileage on the trains was taken up as a special order with a substitute by the committee that instead of requiring the pulling of mileage on trains, the railroads be required to maintain two windows at all stations where there are 2,000 or more inhabitants, one of the windows to be for issuing mileage tickets.

Senator Baggett sent forward a substitute for the committee substitute requiring the pulling of mileage on trains where the book is presented by the purchaser. He proceeded with an extended argument on the mileage book issue pleading that he is in touch with "the people" and that they demand this legislation to relieve them from a great inconvenience. He reiterated the charge that the railroads injected the objectionable regulation as a spite rule on account of the mileage book and reduced passenger rate compromise.

Senator Bassett favored the committee substitute with his amendment, allowing holders of mileage books to have their baggage checked before exchanging mileage for tickets.

Senator Starbuck offered an amendment to the committee substitute, to take the population of the towns affected according to the last official census.

Senator Boyden offered as a substitute to require two windows to be kept open in towns of 3,000 or over. Senator Green explained that this substitute differed from the committee substitute in raising the size of the town from 2,000 to 3,000 and directed the corporation to sue for penalty instead of the individual aggrieved.

Senator Baggett was also allowed time to explain the difference in the several measures and after the confusion which lasted several minutes the voting began, an aye and no vote being demanded on all substitutes.

The Boyden substitute was defeated by a vote of 40 to 3.

The Barham amendment was defeated.

CIVIC DAY COMES MARCH 10

Feature Will be Lecture on "City Beautiful"—Committees Appointed.

The civic department of the Woman's club is making extensive preparations for the exercises on National Civic Day, March 10. Mr. McFarland, president of the National Civic Association, will be here and give his illustrated lecture on "a city beautiful." The ladies hope to make the occasion a memorable one in this city, believing that if the people can once be thoroughly aroused to the necessity for civic improvement much good can be done.

The following committees have charge of the arrangements for the occasion:

Program: Mrs. C. D. McIver, chairman; Mrs. Dorian Blair, Mrs. W. H. Osborn, Mrs. C. W. Tenney.

Hall and stage: Mrs. Leslie Abbott, chairman; Mrs. R. C. Hood, Mrs. J. L. Brockmann, Mrs. J. W. Patterson, Mrs. A. F. Fortune, Mrs. L. B. Jeter, Mrs. B. McKenzie.

Junior League and Civic Parade: Mrs. Al Fairbrother, chairman; Mrs. E. Sternberger, Mrs. J. W. Petty, Mrs. Frank Weston, Mrs. R. L. Justice, Miss Meta Beall, Miss Linda Wharton, Miss Matthews.

These committees are all requested to meet with the members of the Junior Civic League at the Smith Memorial building next Wednesday afternoon, March 8, to make final arrangements for Friday's exercises.

HIGH SCHOOL SOCIETIES TO ENTER CONTESTS

The Philomelan and Diaphesian Debating societies of the High School held a joint meeting yesterday afternoon and outlined the course of work for the spring. More active preparations than ever before are being made to put Greensboro's name at the head in this as in athletics.

The societies will enter three big contests with other high schools. On April 14th Greensboro, Raleigh and Charlotte high schools will hold a triangular debate on the question, "Resolved: That the Federal government should levy a graduated income tax, barring constitutional objections."

Seven debaters will enter the preliminary contest before Greensboro's four representatives are chosen.

On April 14th will be held a declamation contest at Elon College for the high schools of the adjoining counties. The societies unanimously elected Sidney Gayle, Phil., to represent the high school.

On April 1st the societies will enter another declamation contest at Guilford College. A competitive examination will be held to select Greensboro's representative.

Immediately after the adjournment of the societies President A. H. King called a meeting of the Athletic Association. A report from Mr. Bond, manager of the track team, stated that a meet comprising the usual eleven events had been scheduled for March 25th in Raleigh. Greensboro, Kinston, Wilmington and Raleigh high schools will participate. The management also intends to arrange meets for April 1st at Guilford College, and April 17th at Salisbury.

Mr. King, having learned that the constitution of the association had been misplaced, appointed a committee, Messrs. Kerr, chairman; Foust, McDuffie and Coffin, to supply another. A motion was adopted that all members of the 1910 football team should be given G. composed of the purple and gold of the high school. The president appointed a committee, Messrs. Eutsler, chairman; Grimsley and Lindau, to draw up a set of rules which shall state the future requirements of winning a G.

Class Meeting Postponed.

The class in pierced brass, stenciling, etc., will not hold a meeting tonight on account of the absence from the city of the teachers, Mrs. Stone and Mrs. Whitsett.

PHYSICAL AND MENTAL DISPLAY

High School Students to Have Contests Here April 7.

The athletic, recitation and declamation contests to be pulled off in Greensboro on April 7 by the public high schools of the East Central Division of North Carolina will no doubt be participated in by a large number of students from the fifty-one high schools in the division.

Some time ago the committee having the affair in charge met in Greensboro and a cordial invitation to hold the contests here was extended, it being pointed out that the big auditorium could be used for the athletic contest, while there are a number of buildings in which the recitation and declamation contests could be pulled off. The invitation has been accepted and the preliminary arrangements made for holding these contests here.

The athletic contest will be held in the auditorium in the afternoon and each school can enter as many men as it desires for each separate event, but only bonafide students of these schools will be allowed to participate. The events are as follows: Running high jump, running broad jump, shot put (12 pounds), relay race, 4 relays—one mile; baseball throwing (accuracy), Potato race, 100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, 440 yard dash, low hurdle race, high hurdle race, pole vault. There will be only ten events, but the contestants will train for twelve so they can substitute one event for another. First place receives 5 points; second place, 3 points; third place, 1 point. To the winner of first in each event a prize worth $2.50 will be given. To the school making the largest number of points in the contest a $15 prize will be given, the second prize to be $5.

For the recitation contest, in which girls will participate, each school may have one representative. In case more than eight schools participate a preliminary contest will be pulled off in the afternoon. To the winner in the final contest a prize valued at $7.50 will be given. No recitation shall be over 1,000 words in length. This contest will be at night.

The declamation contest, in which one boy from each school will be allowed to participate, the rules and prizes to be the same as in the recitation contest, will be at night also.

There is considerable interest in the above contests and it is expected that each high school that participates will send to Greensboro a strong delegation on the date of the event.

JIM HUFFINE WILL FURNISH ANOTHER "TIGER" CASE

Jim Huffine, a negro who spends some little time in the vicinity of the passenger station, was arrested last night on the charge of retailing. Jim says he sold no liquor, but the officers state they have evidence to show that he not only sold liquor last night, but had done so on previous occasions when the opportunity was offered. The prisoner was locked up to await a hearing before Judge Eure this morning.

Mr. Hennessee Operated On.

Mr. J. E. Hennessee, of Salisbury, who underwent an operation at St. Leo's hospital on Tuesday, was reported as doing well last night. Mrs. Hennessee is here to be with her husband.

FLYERS WANT TO FLY IN GREENSBORO

Mayor E. J. Stafford yesterday received a letter from the Star Aeroplane Exhibition Company, of Detroit, Mich., asking if arrangements could not be made whereby the company could give a flying machine tournament or airship race in Greensboro. The writer, A. C. Immel, of the above mentioned company, stated that he had considered the matter carefully and was of the opinion that such an undertaking would prove a success.

Mayor Stafford will take the matter up with Mr. Immel and learn more about the proposition. He stated, however, that it looked like such an event could be arranged for without any great expense.

BUSY SESSION SUPERIOR COURT

Many Cases Swept From Docket Yesterday—Gilmer Case Comes Up Today.

Solicitor Gattis and Judge Daniels had a busy day in Superior court yesterday and as a result of their efforts a large number of cases were swept off the docket. This morning the Claude Gilmer murder case will be taken up and will likely consume the larger portion of the day.

It will be remembered that Gilmer shot and killed Connie Garrett a couple of weeks ago, Gilmer at the time being crazy from the effects of mean "blind tiger" liquor. He declared afterwards that he knew nothing of the killing, but as soon as he regained his understanding he surrendered to the officers. He has retained Maj. C. M. Stedman and Clifford Frazier. O. L. Sapp will assist Solicitor Gattis in the prosecution. A special venire of fifty men was ordered summoned Tuesday and from this number, together with the regular jury, the jurors for the case will be selected.

Hunt Got Six Years.

The principal case yesterday was that of State vs. Virgil Hunt, the charge being highway robbery. Hunt is the negro who assaulted Mrs. Johnson, of White Oak, on the Summit avenue road shortly after Christmas and forcibly took possession of her purse. The negro did not attempt to refute the evidence of the prosecution and a verdict of guilty was rendered. Judge Daniels gave him six years in the State prison.

Shemwell Has Quit Toting Cup.

Baxter Shemwell appeared in court under an order of a former court to show that he had been a law abiding citizen for the past year. Mr. Shemwell stated that he had given no one any trouble and had discontinued the habit of carrying a pistol in his pocket. He will have to appear here next February to show that he is still a law abiding citizen, being under a good sized bond to keep the peace.

Many Cases Disposed Of.

Jim Green, colored, was sent to the roads for 12 months for larceny.

John Archer was found not guilty of larceny.

The grand jury returned an indictment against D. E. Mottsinger, charging false pretense, marked "a true bill."

Phil Oppleman was arraigned on the charge of receiving goods knowing them to have been stolen. The case was continued, Oppleman's bond being fixed at $300.

The grand jury filed into court in a body and returned a true bill against Mary Raper, the High Point negro charged with infanticide. She has not yet been arraigned.

Bob Causey was sent to the roads for twelve months for retailing.

In the case of Isaac Cobb, who was convicted on the bigamy charge on Tuesday, Judge Daniels agreed to suspend judgment on payment of costs and the understanding that the defendant was to leave the State.

Judgment was suspended on payment of costs in the case of Robert Aiken, who was found guilty of forgery.

The case against Eugene Goble and Jennie Bringer, who were charged with living together unlawfully, was continued.

The case against C. E. Hockett, charging embezzlement, was continued for the State until the next term.

H. M. Williams, colored, was charged with retailing, the jury returning a verdict of guilty. Judge Daniels sentenced Williams to six months on the county roads. The defendant is a negro about 60 years of age and from the evidence it appeared that he had been doing a good retailing business at his home near Guilford station.

Tomorrow morning the case against Oliver Mills, who is charged with the murder of Jesse Farrington, will be taken up.

Attended Meeting of Jewelers.

R. C. Bernau went to Durham yesterday afternoon to attend a meeting of the directors of the North Carolina Jewelers' Association. The meeting was for the purpose of arranging a program and to fix the date of the annual meeting which will be held in Winston-Salem during the summer.

HOUSE PASSED THE LIQUOR BILL

Designed to Prevent Handling of Intoxicants by Clubs.

Final Vote on the Measure Was 83 For and 18 Against—Flood of New Bills in the House.

Raleigh, March 1.—The House passed tonight the anti-saloon league bill, to prohibit the sale or handling of intoxicating liquors by any club or association, amendments being adopted that eliminate the clause that would prohibit members of clubs having liquors in their private lockers and specifying that this act shall not interfere with any local law regulating the control of the keeping of liquors.

The greatest opposition was to the feature that interfered with lockers in clubs, and Representative Devin of Granville offered an amendment striking out the words, "or where members are allowed to keep intoxicating liquors in lockers or in storage devices of any kind they shall be guilty of a misdemeanor." This was adopted by a vote of 65 to 32 and on the final vote for passage of the bill the roll call was 83 to 18.

A Chance to Make Money.

A young man who had been out of employment for some time and to whom money had become a stranger stood on the Walnut street bridge over the Schuylkill gazing down at the water.

Suicide was in his mind, but he was afraid to seek death by drowning and only contemplated it when he realized that he had no money to purchase poison, a rope or something of the sort.

As he was standing there a well dressed man accosted him.

"Young man, do you want to earn $47?" he said.

"Four dollars?" gasped the unfortunate, to whom the sum sounded like a million. "Lead me to it," he said.

"Come along," said the stranger as he led the way across the bridge.

The young man followed, a new hope gleaming from his eyes.

The stranger led the way to a room on a side street off Walnut.

"Here we are," he said.

"Well, how am I going to earn those $47?" asked the young man.

"Well, you see, I'm a little hard up for cash," said the stranger, "and I'm going to sell you a pair of five dollar shoes for a dollar!"—Philadelphia Press.

The Carrot Cure.

Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, referring to the true efficacy of carrots as a cure for wounds (a tradition which was certainly not handed down from Crete), writes to Dr. Hunt in 1863, telling him how a man's heel, which was severely wounded at the battle of Fredericksburg, was treated by Dr. Bigelow, who did nothing but keep the wound open and made the patient use for this purpose a little plug of carrot, which seemed to agree with him very well.

Another more modern medical authority says that for delicate persons an excellent supper vegetable is a fair sized carrot, boiled whole so as to retain its aromatic properties, then split into quarters and warmed afresh before being served hot. It acts as a nerve sedative while being cordial and restorative. A sense of mental invigoration will follow, and the digestion of this estimable root will be readily performed without preventing sleep.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Peacock Plumage.

However much milliners may admire the plumage of the peacock and however much they may desire the money it brings, superstition prevents many of them from using it.

"Rather than give peacock feathers house room I would lose my best customer," one milliner declared. "I have done it more than once. Women who want their own materials made up have brought peacock trimming, and when I positively refused to handle it they went away angry and looked for somebody else to work up their peacock feathers. But no doubt they had a long chase, because two-thirds of the milliners feel just as I do about peacock feathers."

"But why?" asked a woman who carried a peacock feather in her hand bag.

"It's bad luck, that is why," said the milliner.—New York Sun.

No Paprika in Her Bones.

A Hungarian restaurant in New York became famous for its culinary triumphs, and many visitors to the city became acquainted there with the mysterious dishes produced in Hungarian kitchens. In one of these parties several years ago was a young matron from the far west, who, anxious to extend her culinary knowledge and seeing how her husband relished one of the courses of the meal, asked the head waiter for the recipe for the dish.

"I can give it to you, madam," was the courteous reply. "but you can't make it."

"And why not?" asked the sightseer.

"Because you must be Hungarian. It might come right for an Austrian, but an American never. You must have paprika in your bones." And, taking that high ground, the request was refused.—New York Tribune.

"Say, Snibbs, let me use your phone, will you?"

"Sure. What's the matter with yours?"

"It's all right. I want to telephone to my wife that I'm going to bring a man from out of town to dinner."

"Well?"

"He's sitting in my room now, and I hate to have him watch my face when my wife tells me what she thinks of the proposition."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

An Essay on Man.

What a chimera, then, is man! What a novelty, what a monster, what a chaos, what a subject of contradiction, what a prodigy! A judge of all things, a feeble worm of the earth, depository of the truth, cloaca of uncertainty and error, the glory and the shame of the universe.—Pascal.

GREENSBORO'S WAY.

This paper has so often commended the progressive measures and methods of government in Guilford county and Greensboro that it is pleasant to see that opinion held by others. The Wilmington Star says in its Sunday's issue:

"We never will cease to admire Greensboro's way of getting what she wants. When anything is wanted the men of that city get together and go after it right now. While Wilmington, Raleigh, Asheville and other cities have been 'figuring on' the commission form of government, Greensboro rushed her bill through the General Assembly, held a referendum election, adopted the new form at the polls, and in two weeks or less will have her commission form of doing business. We are stuck on hustling like that and we can't help admiring the Greensboro spirit—the one thing which has evidently made North Carolina's Gate City one of the State's notable industrial and business centers."

Raleigh and Wilmington always take up too much of the time of the legislature. As the legislators are in Raleigh all the time, naturally, the division of opinion in Raleigh are voiced to legislators, and Wilmington folks come here very often. In Greensboro, the people thresh out these matters and the legislature passes the bills desired by Guilford legislators. If the legislators gave as much time to hearing from the citizens of Greensboro as they do to citizens of Raleigh, they would probably delay Guilford measures as much as they do Wake measures.

No bad measures ought to pass, no matter who introduces it, but the only safe ground for legislators to take is to assume that Senators and Representatives elected by the people of Wake know what the people want and their bills are entitled to the same favorable consideration as is given to the measures presented by legislators from Currituck and Cherokee. The burden of proof is on those who object to measures introduced by legislators.

A Fierce Night Alarm.

is the hoarse, startling cough of a child, suddenly attacked by croup. Often it aroused Lewis Chamblin of Manchester, O., (R. R. No. 2) for their four children were greatly subject to croup. "Sometimes in severe attacks," he wrote "we were afraid they would die, but since we proved what a certain remedy Dr. King's New Discovery is, we have no fear. We rely on it for croup and for coughs, colds or any throat or lung trouble." So do thousands of others. So may you. Antiquity of Shorthand.

Shorthand is apt to be looked upon as an essentially modern art. The predecessors of Pitman—Byron in the eighteenth century, Mason in the seventeenth—are dim and distant figures beyond which it seems useless to venture. Cicero dictated his orations to his freedman, T. Tullius Tiro, and was inconsolable when temporarily deprived of his services. He complained in a letter to a friend that, while "Tiro takes down whole phrases in a few signs, Spintarus (his provisional substitute) only writes in syllables." We need not, however, suppose that the "notae Tironianae" were actually invented by the freedman in question. As M. Guenlin points out, the Romans created very few of the arts of peace, contenting themselves, as a rule, by copying from the Greeks. M. Guenlin, however, indicates the banks of the Nile as the cradle of the art.—T. P.'s London Weekly.

A Benevolent Censor.

A trio of young ladies spent some weeks last year at an out of the way village in the mountain region. They found the village postmaster a quaint old character, whose ways were as original as they were startling, so that the daily trip to the postoffice became a real event.

"Is there any mail for us, major?" asked one of the young ladies as she appeared at the window one morning.

"No; they ain't a thing for you all this mawlin', Miss Mary," was the reply.

"They wasn't nothin' come for you but a letter that looked like advertisement, an' so I opened it, and sure enough it was jest some advertisement about somethin' or other, and I says to myself, says I, 'Now, Miss Mary don't want to tote such stuff as that home with her,' and so I throwed it in the waste box."—Youth's Companion.

Snuff and a Crook.

Robert Pinkerton once told a story of his father, the founder of the detective agency, which illustrates the elder Pinkerton's caution. A noted criminal was detained in Pinkerton's Chicago office. The elder Pinkerton left the room and when he returned took the precaution of holding a revolver in front of him ready for use.

He saw the criminal standing by the door with a snuffbox he had picked up from Pinkerton's desk in his hand.

"This is good snuff," affably remarked the crook as he took a sniff.

"For the eyes or the nose?" asked Pinkerton, who knew that the crook had intended to blind him in an effort to escape.

"Well," remarked the criminal, "I'm sorry to say that the nose gets it this time."

HER JUDICIAL FRIEND

By SARAH BRYCE VAUGHAN

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

"Well, Ruth, tell me frankly, what do you think of my lover?"

"Frankly, Amy, I don't like his looks. He is not to be depended upon."

"Oh, heavens!"

"I am sorry I said it. Don't let it trouble you for an instant. You asked me for my opinion of him, not some one else's opinion. Try again; ask others. If they agree with me, drop him. If they do not, pay no attention to what I have said."

"That's just like you, Ruth. You have taken a wise course—a judicious course—I may say a judicial course. Men say that we women should never be judges or jurymen. Your action disproves this. You have given me the benefit of your impressions, but have admonished me that unless I get confirmatory evidence to pay no attention to them."

"I trust you will show yourself as worthy to receive them as you consider me worthy to give them."

"What do you mean?"

"That you are under no consideration to reveal to your lover the fact that I have even given you any opinion."

Amy Brickwell thought a moment, then said, "I suppose I shouldn't, so I won't—that is, if you won't let me."

"Certainly, I won't let you! Do you promise?"

"Yes; I promise."

"If you tell, that will end our friendship forever."

Miss Brickwell asked a number of persons what they thought of her lover, and not one confirmed the opinion of her friend. Indeed, all those she consulted told her that they had been very much pleased with his personnel, and those who knew him spoke very highly of him. This lifted a load from her shoulders. She religiously kept faith with her friend, refraining from mentioning the matter between them to her lover or any one else.

But a time came when she began to wonder if Ruth were not right, after all. The lover's calls became less and less frequent. He grew undemonstrative. There could be no doubt that he was preparing to throw off the chain that bound him to his fiancée. One evening when he showed this disposition she said to him:

"I was warned against you soon after we became engaged."

"Who warned you?"

"I have promised not to tell that."

"Was your friend man or woman?"

"Woman."

"Well, why didn't you take her advice and shake me?"

"The person who warned me was a very superior woman. After warning me she told me to get the opinion of others, and if they did not confirm hers I was to pay no attention to what she had said. You see, she had a judicial mind."

"And you asked the others?"

"I did, but it turned out she knew better than they."

"I should like to know the name of this judicial person."

"That you can't know."

"And you supposed that the people you asked for their impressions of me, knowing that you were engaged to me, would tell you the truth?"

"I asked them all to be frank."

"Stupid!"

It's not pleasant to be called a fool. Miss Brickwell pouted, but said nothing.

"I'm going to tell you something," said her fiancée. "I have heard reports about you that have needed investigation. After a man is married he should scout evil reports about his wife; before marriage it is better that they should be cleared up. I'm going to make a confession as well. An old flame of mine has appeared on the scene, and I've been with her a great deal lately."

"You have?"

"Yes, I have, my reason being that I suspected she was the author of these reports about you. I concluded to renew my devotion to her for detective purposes. I have found out nothing as yet, but I hope to soon. She supposes me to be on the eve of breaking with you and renewing my engagement to her."

"The horrid thing! Who is she?"

"I am not just yet ready to tell you. I may suspect her wrongfully. If so you will never know. But this person whose judicial talent you appreciate so highly—I'm not going to ask you to break a promise, but I'm going to mention the name of a woman I suspect. You need make no reply. I caught all the information I require without one. I suspect Ruth Swain."

The young lady started.

"I am confirmed in the opinion," her lover continued, "that your judicial friend and my former fiancée, who expects soon to be re-engaged to me, are one and the same person."

The girl first turned red, then pale. Her lover clasped her in his arms.

"Sweetheart," he said, "whether or no Miss Swain has a judicial mind, you have not. It was her object to exercise her judicial faculties to send you to Coventry. But she overreached herself by trying to do too much. Had you been as dishonorable as she I would have got at the bottom of it all long ago. But I would rather have you stupid than dishonorable. Now let us dismiss it from our minds."

Indeed, there was nothing more to say.

Rooks and Cholera.

The present day security of this country against all danger of a cholera epidemic is matter for thankfulness not only in human circles, but in the rookeries too. When the cholera slew nearly 60,000 people in the insular United Kingdom of 1831-2 the rooks appear to have suffered with them. This was stated, at any rate, to have occurred on the estate of the Marquis of Sligo, which boasted one of the largest rookeries in the west of Ireland. On the first or second day of the epidemic's appearance an observer noted that all the rooks had vanished. During the three weeks through which it raged there was no sign of them about their home, but the revenue police found immense numbers of them dead on the shore, ten miles away. When the epidemic abated the rooks returned, but some were too weak to reach their nests, and five-sixths of them had gone.—London Chronicle.

The Japanese Policeman.

Japan has a police force modeled after the French system. In various places throughout Tokyo there are small kabancho, which resemble sentry boxes, but are larger. Three men are attached to each box daily. One remains inside resting, while another stands at the door, and the third patrols a beat, returning at regular intervals to the box. Stations are changed every eight hours. After twenty-four hours' work the three officers are given the same length of time to rest, and three other men are sent to the box. During their "off" days the men are employed in taking census returns, making reports regarding the condition of streets, bridges, embankments, drains and cemeteries. They also report weddings, births, deaths, theatrical performances and the presence of suspicious persons.—Harper's Weekly.

H. G. BRAXTON, Business Manager.

The Telegram's Phone is No. 59.

The Telegram is entered at the Post-office in Greensboro, North Carolina, for transmission through the mails as Second Class Matter.

BUSINESS NOTICE.

H. G. Braxton, Business Manager of the Telegram under the new ownership, will not arrive in Greensboro from Birmingham until March 10th. After that date Mr. Braxton will be in charge of the Telegram's circulation and business departments. In the meantime the editor of the Telegram will take pleasure in giving his personal attention to any detail of the business. The Telegram's phone is No. 59 and the editor or his representative can be reached in this manner at almost any hour of the day or night. The office is open day and night, except for a few hours in the early morning.

Among those who look good when they are far away are the fellows who have gone and can't come back.

It is said that the Democrats in Congress will tackle the tariff at the first opportunity. It is to be hoped they will "tackle low" and bring it down.

"Where is Dorothy Arnold?" is a question which should be relegated to the shades of forgetfulness along with questions like "How old is Ann?"

The St. Louis poet who robbed a mail box and secured nothing but one of his own returned manuscripts was playing in hard luck.

It is announced that a young American millionaire has made a matrimonial Hitt with Miss Katherine Elkins. If this be true it will prove a sad blow to the Duke of Abruzzi.

Atlanta Journal announces that the damage to the Georgia peach crop amounts to but twenty per cent. However, it must be admitted that there is ample opportunity yet for the Georgia peach crop to be entirely killed several times.

Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch thinks good roads can be built without mud slinging. They can; but it is frequently difficult to convince some people of the truth of this statement. There is always mud in the roads to sling until they are macadamized.

The Raleigh News and Observer announces that it likes the Atlanta spirit and wishes Raleigh might have a baptism of it. What is the matter with the Greensboro spirit? The latter is the best tonic we know of for North Carolina towns, and Raleigh is close enough to Greensboro to absorb some of it, unless Raleigh is a sponge which has lost its absorbent quality.

Editor Henry B. Varner of the Lexington Dispatch, the great North Carolina newspaper apostle of road building and road improvement, is vexed because the Legislature has not given the State during the present session what he terms "epoch-making good roads legislation." Editor Varner's criticism of the Legislature is of the most caustic kind and is directed against that body all along the line of the work of the present session. The criticism may not be merited in its entirety, and some of it may be due to the disappointment the Lexington editor feels because of failure to see his good roads legislation pass. However, Editor Varner's good roads enthusiasm is most commendable and has been the means of establishing for him a nation-wide reputation as one of the most earnest and aggressive road improvement advocates of this State.

Governor Hooper of Tennessee has said emphatically that he does not propose to follow in the footsteps of his predecessor, Governor Patterson, and attempt to pardon all the convicts in the Tennessee penitentiary. The Governor says further, however, that he will earnestly strive for the enactment of laws which will surround convicts with conditions calculated to reform them and make them better men. This is a logical view of the crime problem. Men who violate the law, except in rare instances, should be visited with the extreme penalty of the statutes; but while they are paying the price of their crimes, every possible effort should be made to reform them. It is not the logical purpose of punishment to make men who violate the laws worse or more degraded than they are at the time of the commission of a crime. Punishment for law breaking is inflicted for the purpose of deterring men from further evil doing and as an example to deter others from following their example. It is the part of wisdom to endeavor to reform the criminal during the process of inflicting the penalty for his misdeeds.

BRETHREN, WE THANK YOU!

The owners of the Telegram desire to extend thanks to the newspapers of North Carolina which have given them a cordial welcome to the State and to the ranks of its journalistic workers. They especially appreciate the friendly greetings accorded them by the Record and the News of this city.

It will be the purpose of the Telegram to maintain amicable relations with its contemporaries and to deal with all of them in a fraternal spirit. We are pleased to be numbered with the newspaper men of the Old North State. As a whole they are a fine body of men and publish papers which are creditable to themselves and to their constituencies, in most cases. We hope to maintain a standard for the Telegram which will entitle it to a front seat on the State newspaper band wagon.

MR. HAYWOOD'S RETIREMENT CAUSE OF REGRET.

Since the announcement of the sale of the Telegram by R. W. Haywood expressions of regret because of his retirement from Greensboro journalism have been numerous. Mr. Haywood is recognized as a gentleman of high character and his personality was stamped on the pages of his paper during the decade in which he owned and managed it. Numerous friends in this city and throughout this and adjoining counties testify to the esteem in which he is held among the people who know him best. Mr. Haywood has not perfected his plans for the future, but the consensus of opinion is that if he decides to remain in Greensboro his course will be heartily approved by the great majority of our citizens. Greensboro people feel that Mr. Haywood is a fixture here and it is sincerely hoped that he will find it advantageous to his interests to remain in this city.

STATE PAPERS ON CHANGE IN OWNERSHIP OF THE TELEGRAM.

The Telegram Sold.

It was announced in the columns of our morning contemporary, the Greensboro Telegram, yesterday morning that the paper had been sold to Mr. J. T. Fain, of Anniston, Ala., and that the new owner had arrived to take charge of the paper March 1. Mr. Fain comes bearing a good reputation as to business qualifications and personal integrity, and has had about 18 years of experience as a publisher. The Daily News extends to him a fraternal welcome to this city and hopes he will find it pleasant and profitable as a home and a business town.

The Telegram was established in 1897, the first issue being on the 31st day of July of that year, and is, therefore, a little more than 13 1/2 years old. It was run as an afternoon paper for about four years, when it was changed to a morning paper.—Greensboro News.

Telegram Changes Hands.

The Greensboro Telegram has changed hands and after March 1st will be run by the new owner, Mr. J. T. Fain, of Anniston, Ala. Mr. Fain has already arrived in the city with his wife and three children and will go to housekeeping as soon as he finds a house suited to his needs.

The newcomer in the newspaper field of Greensboro comes to the city with the highest recommendation, both as a good citizen and a journalist of long experience. He has been in the newspaper

Fain, late proprietor of the Anniston (Ala.) Star. They Fain would see a good way to improvement, as long as they have decided to sell. We regret to give up the old workers; but here are good wishes for the retiring gentlemen and a hearty welcome to the new.—Durham Sun.

Messrs. J. T. Fain and H. G. Braxton, who recently purchased the Telegram, took charge with the issue of this morning. Both are trained newspaper men of practical experience and The Record wishes them success in their new field. General regret is expressed that the former owner and editor, Mr. R. W. Haywood, is to retire from the business in Greensboro, but quite likely he will not long remain out of harness.—Greensboro Record, March 1st.

Appius Claudius.

Appius Claudius, surnamed Caecus (the blind), was a Roman statesman who lived during the third century before the Christian era. He was a Roman censor, 312 to 308, and consul, 307 to 296. He commenced the Applan way and completed the Applan aqueduct. From his Roman jurisprudence, oratory, grammar and Latin prose date their beginning. He abolished the limitation of the full right of citizenship to landed proprietors. In his old age he is said to have become blind, whence his cognomen "Caecus." He was the author of works in both prose and verse, of which almost nothing is known.

No Pure Water.

Owing to the extremely solvent powers, pure water is never found in nature, the nearest approach being found in rainwater, which, as it is formed in the upper regions of the atmosphere, is the purest that nature supplies, but in descending it brings with it whatever impurities are floating near the surface, which in the neighborhood of cities are always numerous; hence perfectly pure water is hardly to be found, even the artificially distilled being only approximately so.

Where to Begin.

"Look here," said the reforming husband; "we must have things arranged in this house so that we shall know just where everything is kept." "With all my heart," sweetly answered his wife, "and let us begin with your late hours, my love. I should very much like to know where they are kept."—Stray Stories.

A Boomerang.

"Call that art!" exclaimed a would be critic, pointing to a painting in a studio. "If that daub is a work of art, then I'm an idiot!" "The latter part of your statement," rejoined the artist calmly, "would seem to furnish conclusive proof that it is a work of art."

A Joke on the King.

Sir Ernest Cassel was persona grata with King Edward VII. As a matter of fact there was a curious and striking resemblance between the back view of the late king and that of Sir Ernest. It was so pronounced that the great financier was known among his friends as "Windsor Castle."

There is a good story and a true one told in connection with this. It happened at a garden party at Windsor castle. A well known peer of the realm was strolling about when, as he thought, he spotted Sir Ernest sitting in a chair. Going toward him on tip-toe, he gave him a resounding smack on the shoulder.

"Hello, old Windsor Castle!" he cried.

"How are you?" The occupant of the chair, startled, turned around. It was King Edward, who, unaware of Sir Ernest's nickname, was for a time exceedingly vexed at this undue liberty. However, when the circumstances were explained to him he enjoyed the joke hugely.—London M. A. P.

The Bull Snake.

The bull snake, a species of pine snake, inhabits the shady pine woods along the Atlantic coast from New Jersey to Florida, but other species are found almost everywhere except in New England. The bull snake is quite harmless, but is a powerful constrictor. It lays eggs and feeds upon birds, rodents and eggs. It swallows an egg whole, and after the egg has passed a few inches down the throat—where it forms a large swelling—the serpent lifts its head, elevates its back and exerts a downward pressure until the shell breaks. Owing to a curious constriction of its epiglottis its hiss is so loud and so well sustained as to resemble the sound of redhot iron being plunged in water. The maximum length of these snakes is seven and a half feet. Their color is white, with the exception of the head and back, the former being spotted black and the latter brown.—Wide World Magazine.

ALLEGED "TIGER" WAS DOING BUSINESS IN STABLE.

As a result of the efforts of Sergeant Jones, Andrew Lovett, colored, is resting in the calaboose, pending a hearing before Judge Eure in Municipal court this morning. Lovett is charged with retailing and the officer says he has a good case against him.

For some time the negro has been suspected, but he was an extraordinarily shrewd negro and it required some time to get hold of evidence sufficient to convict. Two warrants were sworn out against Andrew, one by S. W. Reece and the other by J. L. Wrenn.

It developed that Andrew had been keeping his liquor, stuff labeled "apple brandy," in the stable used by Whittington Bros., near The Telegram office, hiding it away in a convenient nook under the trough. The stuff was covered with hay and one would never have suspected that whiskey was kept there. Four pint bottles were found by the officers making the arrest and it would seem that the negro has been doing business for some time. According to the chief prosecuting witnesses the liquor was sold at $1 per pint.

Snow Cools Baseball Enthusiasm.

Frank Doyle, the manager of the Greensboro baseball team, who arrived in Greensboro Tuesday night, was greatly amazed yesterday to find the ground covered with snow. He saw President Brandt and the two discussed the situation, but the conversation was spiritless for it is a hard matter, enthusiasts say, to talk baseball while it is snowing and they decided to wait for warmer weather before deciding on anything definite.

STATE W. C. T. U. WILL CONDUCT ACTIVE CAMPAIGN

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of North Carolina held in this city on Tuesday afternoon it was decided to secure the services of Mrs. Trego, of Cleveland, O., National Organizer of the W. C. T. U., to work the State during the month of May with a view of organizing the organization. An active campaign will be conducted by the union.

Among the matters discussed were plans for having Mrs. Mary Harris Armour attend the State Convention to be held in Greensboro during the month of October and make one or more addresses. Other features of the program were discussed. It was announced that the services of Miss Millis, of Guilford College, has been secured for the summer months, during which Miss Millis will do field work.

THIS SECRET WAS KEPT WELL.

On Friday evening, Feb. 24, at 8:30 Ira M. Petree and Miss Mabel Leigh were united in marriage, the ceremony being performed by Rev. T. J. Ogburn at the M. P. parsonage. After having the matrimonial knot tied Mr. and Mrs. Petree went to their homes as if nothing unusual had occurred and not a person was told of the secret.

Last night at the home of the bride's parents on West Lee street the relatives of the bride were informed of the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Petree are popular young people and have a large circle of friends who will be greatly surprised to learn of their marriage.

Ladies Study Household Economics.

The department of household economics of the Woman's club held the regular meeting yesterday morning in the rooms in the rear of the offices of the Public Service Company, there being a large attendance, considering the inclement weather. Mrs. M. W. Sterne, Mrs. C. T. Lipscomb and Miss Kate Foushee were in charge and they provided each member with a recipe for making chicken salad, cheese straws and cream mints and a practical demonstration followed. The meeting was most helpful.

Young Will Appeal to Higher Court.

The Baggett substitute was defeated by a vote of 30 to 11.

Senator Bassett's amendment regarding baggage. Senator Starbuck's amendment as to population and Senator Cobb's amendment adding Maxton as one of the junctions where two windows are to be kept open irrespective of population, were all three adopted.

The committee substitute as amended was then adopted by a vote of 40 to 3, and the bill passed second and third readings and was sent to the House.

CONSUMPTIVE SYMPTOMS

Removed by Vinol—A Genuine Case Reported from Newark, O.

Newark, O.—"About two years ago my wife was in very poor health. For three months she suffered from a bad cough which had settled on her lungs—she was run-down, reduced in flesh and had all the symptoms of consumption. She began taking Vinol, and before the first bottle was gone she was improved in health—before she had finished her third bottle, her cough was gone and she was well.

"We cannot say too much in praise of Vinol—N. L. Stebbins." (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

In pulmonary troubles Vinol shows its power for good. It goes to the seat of trouble, heals the inflamed surface and cures the cause of the cough.

In hundreds of cases where cod liver oil and emulsions have failed, Vinol has succeeded because it contains all the curative value they do—but its good work is not retarded by useless grease and oil.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. Fariss-Klitz Drug Co., Greensboro, N. C.

A Coin in the Sea.

A coin dropped into the sea will sink to the bottom, however deep it is, owing to the fact that the metal is heavier than the volume of water it displaces. It is a common but mistaken notion that the density of the sea increases with its depth and consequent pressure, as does the density of the atmosphere, which we all know is greatest at the earth's surface. The air, however, like all gases, is elastic and when under pressure (as with its own weight) shrinks in volume and gains in density. Water, on the other hand, is absolutely incompressible, and, although the pressure in the sea increases at the rate of one pound for every two feet we descend, the density of the water remains the same; consequently the penny continues to outweigh the water it displaces, and the coin sinks until it finds a solid resting place. The pressure of the water has no influence at all on the coin, acting as it does on all sides equally.

Warning to Railroad Men

Look out for severe and even dangerous kidney and bladder trouble resulting from years of railroad. Geo. E. Ford, 639 Third St., Fort Wayne, Ind., was many years a conductor on the Nickel Plate. He says: "Twenty years of railroad left my kidneys in terrible condition. There was a continual pain across my back and hips and my kidneys gave me much distress, and the action of my bladder was frequent and most painful. I got a supply of Foley Kidney Pills and the first bottle made a wonderful improvement and four bottles cured me completely. Since being cured I have recommended Foley Kidney Pills to many of my railroad friends." Howard Gardner.

Camels That Ride.
The Bedouins decorate their baggage camels in the most fantastic manner. A huge pack saddle is surmounted by a still larger pannier. Above this again is a sort of chair in which the rider sits. The long strips of leather hanging down the sides are simply for decorative purposes. I have seen camels when too young to go on long treks, being carried in these panniers, and they are always used for the Bedouin children.

This tribe has many quaint and curious customs. Perhaps the most curious of these is the manner in which they show their esteem for certain strangers. One evening when a young camel had been killed for the meal I noticed the women collecting the blood in a bowl. Then, to my astonishment, they started painting my camels on the necks and flanks with the blood. Unknowingly I was the recipient of the greatest honor that can be paid a stranger. The blood dried on and remained for a long time, acting as a talisman among all the Sherarat tribe.—Douglas Caruthers in Wide World Magazine.

A Tragedy of Instinct.
The processionaries are rather strange caterpillars. A single string of them five or six yards long has just climbed down from my parasol pines and is at this moment infolding itself in the walls of my garden, carpeting the ground traversed with transparent silk, according to the custom of the race. To say nothing of the meteorological apparatus of unparalleled delicacy which they carry on their spine, these caterpillars, as everybody knows, have this remarkable quality—that they travel only in a troop, one after the other, like the blind of Breughel or those in the parable, each of them obstinately, indissolubly following her leader; so much so that our author having one morning disposed the file on the edge of a large stone vase, thus closing the circuit, for seven whole days, during an atrocious week, through cold, hunger and unspeakable weariness, the unhappy troop on its tragic round without rest, respite or mercy, pursued the pitiless circle until death arrived.—Forum.

Called For Glory Divine.
Among the customers in a drug store one day last week was a little girl who is known to her playmates in that vicinity as "Peggy." As she stood waiting for her turn it could be noticed that she was repeating something under her breath in her effort to remember what her mother had sent her to buy.

Mother wants five cents' worth of glory divine.

"Of what?" said the young clerk, who was standing there as if stunned by a hard blow of a baseball bat.

"Glory divine, glory divine," came the reply in a louder voice than when she had made the original request.

"You had better go home and have your mother write it down on paper, little girl," said the clerk, feeling that the girl was too sure to argue with him.

Soon she returned, and, handing the note to the clerk, he read, "Five cents' worth of chlorate of lime."—Philadelphia Times.

A Bit of Sicily.

"There is no Italian town more picturesque than the Sicilian capital, Palermo," writes a traveler. "In its port lie crowded the queerest coasting craft I have ever set eyes on. Sailing ships of all tints, their hulls painted all the colors of the rainbow, nose up against the quay, where mule carts, whose drivers are shouting at the top of their voices, wait to take away the merchandise. The narrow street where the custom house officers examine the goods brought ashore is a place of terrific noise. When a driver, two clerks and two custom house officers are discussing the contents of a bale or a cask it seems as though murder must be committed within the next few seconds. But somebody signs something, the cart moves on, and everybody laughs."

Murdering Shakespeare.

"I never hesitate to cut and slash and change any play until it suits me," said Stuart Robson to his legal adviser on one occasion.

"I suppose you edit Shakespeare with a blue pencil?" replied the lawyer.

"You can just bet I do."

"Then, I imagine, you would plead guilty to an indictment for murdering the Bard of Avon?"

"No; I would not, but I would admit dissecting his corpse."

Needs Prodding.

"It is a great mistake, Mabel, to trifle with the affections of a man who loves you by encouraging some one else."

"Well, he's a little slow, auntie. I think he needs a pacemaker."

Kindness.

Life is short, and we have never too much time for gladdening the hearts of those who are traveling the same dark journey with us. Oh, be swift to love; make haste to be kind!—Amliel.

Specialization.

Doctor—What can I do for you? Patient—I have cut my index finger. Doctor—Very sorry, but I am a specialist on the middle finger.—Pilegenda Blatter.

Auricular Evidence.

"My daughter, Gladys Mae, has become quite an elocutionist."

"Yes," peevishly replied the next door neighbor, "so I hear."—Puck.

We Sell for Less Because We Sell for Cash

We do not want you to buy from us if you feel that you can afford to pay from 50 cents to $1.50 a pair more for your shoes than we ask for the same kind of a shoe. It is nice to be liberal, and the stores who sell on credit need your money to pay for the shoes bought by the man who never pays for them. If you judge the value of a shoe by the price, you should go to some other store where they will allow you to pay $5.00 for a $3.50 shoe just to make you feel rich.

We Want the Man's Money Who Wants His Money's Worth.

Philanthropists? No. We have method in our madness, we know that the man who demands full value for his money will pay cash, and he will have cash to spend when the other fellow who buys on credit will be broke and in debt. We are in business to make money, but not at your expense. When we sell four pairs of shoes at $4.00 a pair we get $16.00 in cash, but if we sold these shoes at $5.00 a pair on credit, and one of the four men did not pay us, we would only get $15.00 for our four pairs of shoes.

We sell the $5.00 kind for $4.00 cash, the $4.00 kind for $3.50 cash, and the $3.50 kind for $3.00 cash. Don't you think it would pay you to buy for cash? Think it over. "A Dollar Saved is a Dollar Made."

Shrinkage in Glaciers.

Scientists aver that, save over a small area, the glaciers of the world are retreating to the mountains. The glacier on Mount Sarmiento, in South America, which descended to the sea when Darwin found it in 1836, is now separated from the shore by a vigorous growth of timber. The Jacobshaven glacier, in Greenland, has retreated four miles since 1890, and the East glacier, in Spitzbergen, is more than a mile away from its old terminal moraine. In Scandinavia the snow line is farther up the mountains, and the glaciers have withdrawn 3,000 feet from the lowlands in a century. The Arapahoe glacier, in the Rocky mountains, with characteristic American enterprise, has been melting at a rapid rate for several years. In the eastern Alps and one or two other small districts the glaciers are growing. In view of these facts we should not be too skeptical when old men assure us that winters nowadays are not to be compared with the winters of their boyhood.—Dundee Advertiser.

Not Made Up.

Pushing her way through the crowd on the ferryboat to the decrepit rig, the middle aged woman sized up the emaciated animal from every point of view, and then, turning to the owner, who had clambered out of the wagon and propped himself against the engine room, said, "You ought to be ashamed of yourself for driving a poor horse like that; it should be at home and in the stable." "What is the matter with her, lady?" was the easy response of the owner, who didn't seem a whole lot perturbed. "What is the matter with her?" demanded the S. P. C. A. lady with increasing warmth of tone. "Can't you see how skinny she is? She looks starved." "The boss is all right, lady," calmly rejoined the expressman, as a sweet smile floated through his scant crop of whiskers. "You see, she got up so late this morning that she didn't have time to put on her rats, pads an' extenders, or she would have been as plump as your next one."—Argonaut.

The Brain is Very Adaptable.

Each vocation makes a different call upon the brain and develops faculties and qualities peculiar to itself, so that as the various professions, trades and specialties multiply the brain takes on new adaptive qualities, thus giving greater variety and strength to civilization as a mass, says Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine. When the world was young the brain of man was very primitive, because the demand upon it was largely for self protection and the acquisition of food, which called only for the development of its lower, its animal part. As civilization advanced, however, there was a higher call upon the brain and a more varied development until today, in the highest civilization, it has become exceedingly complex.

Only Two Kinds.

Little Lawrence's grandfather was very ill, and a trained nurse had been employed to care for him. When he became convalescent a young woman, who had studied in a hospital for a short time was secured in her place. A sympathetic neighbor meeting Lawrence, the following conversation took place:

"How is your dear grandpa, this morning, Lawrence?"

"He is better."

"Have you the trained nurse still?"

"No; the trained nurse has gone away, and the one we have now is half trained and half wild."—Woman's Home Companion.

Once a Sailor—Always a Sailor.

Charitable institutions often find it hard to learn the occupations of those admitted. A man who has followed several trades when asked his occupation names the one he regards as most dignified, even if he has not followed it for years. The Survey tells of a case that happened in the Cook County infirmary. The man "at the age of nineteen was a sailor for one year. His career as a sailor ended with an accident on the ship by which he lost a leg. For the next thirty-six years he took various jobs as caretaker and the like, such as a crippled person can obtain. Yet when after thirty-six years of independence he was finally forced to take refuge in a poorhouse, he puts himself down on the entrance card as a sailor, and one feels in that word the pride of a Norse son of the sea."

A Nickname For Barrett.

Lawrence Barrett, the tragedian, was subject to dyspepsia, and when he was suffering from that disorder he was cold and distant toward his company. One irreverent fellow always refused, however, to be suppressed. He said one day: "Just look at Cassius. He looks as solemn and righteous as if he'd swallowed the sword of justice. Let's call him the Scabbard." And the Scabbard he was—out of his hearing—for the rest of that season.

Costly Dressing.

Mrs. Washington Terrace consented to be interviewed.

"What? Dress on $600 a year?"

"She made a wry grimace with her face and hands."

"Why, I couldn't dress my salads on $600 a year," she said.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

O. E. S. THIMBLE CLUB.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the club was held Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. J. C. Morris being the hostess, and her home on Mendenhall street was the scene of a merry gathering when the club members and their friends were assembled in the parlors each busily engaged on some article of needlework. Mrs. Morris proved herself an ideal hostess and the dainty refreshments served at the close of the afternoon's entertainment were a fitting climax of this enjoyable occasion.

This club is not limited to any number of members, all ladies of the Order Eastern Star being eligible to club membership. The invited guests were Mrs. J. T. J. Battle, Mrs. Cobb, Misses Morris and Ross and the club members present included the hostess, Mesdames Lampman, Blackburn, Moorefield, Myrick, Mathews, Johnson, Andrews, Misses Johnson, Pitts and Banner.

The Horseshoe Legend.

Here is an explanation of the old horseshoe superstition: St. Dunstan was a skilled farrier. One day while at work in his forge the devil entered in disguise and requested Dunstan to shoe his "single hoof." The saint, although he recognized his malicious customer, acceded, but caused him so much pain during the operation that Satan begged him to desist. This St. Dunstan did, but only after he had made the evil one promise that neither he nor any of the lesser evil spirits, his servants, would ever molest the inmates of a house where the horseshoe was displayed.

The Important Problem

confronting anyone in need of a laxative is not a question of a single action only, but of permanently beneficial effects, which will follow proper efforts to live in a healthful way, with the assistance of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, whenever it is required, as it cleanses the system gently yet promptly, without irritation and will therefore always have the preference of all who wish the best of family laxatives.

The combination has the approval of physicians because it is known to be truly beneficial, and because it has given satisfaction to the millions of well-informed families who have used it for many years past.

To get its beneficial effects, always buy the genuine manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

The Tyrant In the Field.

There have been few commanders so tyrannous as Lopez, the dictator of Paraguay, when, in the war of 1865-70, it fought single handed the neighboring countries of Argentina, Brazil and Uruguay. Lopez, says Mr. W. H. Koebel in his "Argentina," was wont to carry the theory of victory or death to an uncomfortable point. "Officers were executed for mere remarks whose tone fell beneath the standard of confidence that Lopez had set up for himself. One, for instance, was shot for having announced in the course of his duty that the enemy was strongly intrenched. Another met his end on account of an unguarded speech to the effect that the Paraguayan army was accustomed to count the enemy's losses and forget its own."

Old Time Railway Travel.

Third class passenger coaches in England used to be coupled on next to the engine. The travelers came in for terrible treatment when any accident occurred. At times the engine was driven tender first, in which case frozen hands could be warmed at the smoke-stack. The passengers were packed, seventy of them, into a truck eighteen feet in length by seven and a half in width. There was no roof and not, as a rule, proper protection at the sides.

Vigorous.

Victim—If your hair restorer is good, why is it that you are bald yourself? Barber—Well, sir, once I had a very big order for ladies' platts, and to execute it I used some extra doses of my restorer over my hair and got half a dozen long platts, sir. But it drew all the hair out of my constitution, sir.—London Mail.
